Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Nagata (U.S. Pre-Grant Publication 2002/0082027).

Claim 1: Nagata discloses an image input device (input device 21 in FIG. 4 and paragraph 0103); an additional information reading device (input device 11 in FIG. 4 and paragraph 0092); a search device that carries out a search for an original file (operating device 23 in FIG. 4 and paragraph 0139, lines 3-6); a copy output device (output device 15 in FIG. 4); a display device (computer monitor at customer terminal 10 in FIG. 2); an editing device (browser page of FIG. 6 that allows entry of a web address, the controlling the displayed information); and a controller (processor hardware inherent to service provider system in FIG. 4).

Claim 2: The editing of the additional information can also be the entry of the additional information at the input device (11). This editing is possible at any time, including the point of time at which a search for a file has been completed and no file is found.

Claim 3: As stated with respect to claim 2, the editing of the additional information is the entry of the additional information at the input device (11). A search can be performed after this editing is completed.

Claim 4: The copying apparatus is the overall system of FIG. 4. This apparatus includes an information processing apparatus (24) which stores wine labels. It also communicates with a network (8). The search device (23) searches the information processing apparatus (24) when a search query is entered by the consumer (3).

Claim 5: The additional information reading device (11) can be an image scanner (paragraph 0103, line 2), which means that the additional information can be the information within an image of the wine label (FIG. 7B). Any of the text or images on the label of FIG. 7B constitutes electronic watermark information, given that the claims do not define the nature of the watermark.

Claim 6: The additional information on the wine label can include a bar code (FIG. 9).

Claim 7: See remarks for claim 1.

Claim 8: See remarks for claim 2.

Claim 9: See remarks for claim 3.

Claim 10: See remarks for claim 4.

Claim 11: See remarks for claim 5.

Claim 12: See remarks for claim 6.

Claim 13: See remarks for claim 1.
